INPsySR is a network of organizations that use psychology to attempt to understand and improve pressing social issues. Our purpose in linking such groups is

- To unite the efforts of psychological organizations around the world that are currently involved in peace, conflict resolution and social justice activities, or who are seeking to develop such work.
- To promote communication and cooperation between such organizations
- To facilitate contacts with international bodies of psychology and related disciplines and to be an important source of advice to institutions, government departments and to political and social organizations.
- To promote social responsibility in the practice of psychology.

Currently we have member organizations in Finland, Germany, Australia, India, Costa Rica and USA.

Below is our program for ECP 2009, plus related events of particular relevance to our members. Full information for an organization to join INPsySR will be available at our General Meeting and from the officers named above.
